Challenge # 25 - Watercolours

Water Colours and Kitchen Paper Towels

Try painting with watercolours onto kitchen paper towel.

It is interesting to see the water absorb into the towel and makes a great exercise for practising making rich colours with watercolours (i.e. a little water on the brush and swish the brush around your chosen colour on the palette at least ten times). Washing the brush between each colour helps to prevent “muddy “ colours and dabbing on a paper towel helps dry the brush a little to make colours more vibrant.

Early school aged children may make lots of paintings of familiar themes.

Adding a fine line permanent marker invites an interesting creative challenge for older children and adults.

All beautiful artworks created with that roll of paper you have in the kitchen!
